Pacific Northwest Proud Boys - Rob Cantrall, Dakota Gilmore, Pete Venturo, Graham Jorgensen, David Silliman

Wed, Jun 27, 2018

Rose City Antifa, working in conjunction with allied groups in the region, has obtained information on many of the Pacific Northwest-located members of the white nationalist, alt-right group known as the Proud Boys. Over the coming weeks, we will be publishing a series of articles detailing the Proud Boys' specific brand of organized hate, and the individuals who make up this rising "weekend warrior" gang, in order to alert the community about the threat that this group poses. You can follow along on our website and on Twitter, using the hashtag #DoxxAllYourBoys.

Articles in the Series:

Volume 3: Russell Schultz, Kory Bentley, Derrick Lancaster, Daniel Garriss

Volume 5: Matteo Dagradi, Donovan Hippo, Jason James, Aaron Williamson
Volume 6: Jake Farmer, Nick Boling, Travis Taylor, Mark Rupprecht

Rob Cantrall

Rob Cantrall was one of the Pacific Northwest's earliest Proud Boy converts, as the hate group's brand seemed a precise fit for his already well-established penchant for violent harassment. Some of Joey Gibson's earliest Portland-area far-right events were called "Antifa-Watch," and typically involved Gibson calling upon his followers to descend upon leftist or even progressive demonstrations and interrupt them with harassment. Some of his followers, including Cantrall, added to Gibson's directives by threatening demonstrators with violence. Footage from a May 13, 2017 anti-police-brutality event in downtown Portland shows Cantrall—attending Joey Gibson's counter-protest—repeatedly attempting to fight or attack demonstrators. Even Gibson's own violent followers such as David Fry (who would soon defect from Patriot Prayer in response to their violence) appeared uncomfortable.

Rob Cantrall heeds Joey Gibson's call to harass, disrupt, and assault an anti-police-brutality demonstration in downtown Portland, OR. Also pictured are other members of the Proud Boys hate group such as Dakota Gilmore, Matteo Dagradi, and Tiny Toese.

After making an unprovoked assault against an activist, Rob Cantrall is confronted by Patriot Prayer follower David Fry. Fry soon abandoned Joey Gibson's organization during a dispute over money.

Cantrall prides himself on the "Based Hobo" moniker he developed. This seems to be derived from his one-man-organization called "The Poverty Party," which no longer has a website, and which seems never to have existed offline or offered any real services. At multiple events, Cantrall has been heard concern-trolling about the plight of poor and houseless people, while simultaneously advocating for the very systems of capitalist control which have produced such an epidemic of suffering.

After threatening to burn down a bookstore, Proud Boy Rob Cantrall boasts about having taken part in previous fascist rallies wherein Nazis assaulted activists. On April 15th, 2017 Joey Gibson also was in Berkeley and fought alongside neo-Nazis from the Rise Above Movement.

Rob Cantrall promises that Trump will purge his political opponents. Also pictured at the incident where Cantrall threatened to burn down a bookstore are Lauren Barrett, Jourdin Davis, and Alexandria Davis.

Racist Proud Boy Rob Cantrall denigrates the Black Lives Matter movement, declaring "Black Lives Don't Matter".

Rob Cantrall rides in the back of a truck with fellow Proud Boys Matteo Dagradi and Dakota Gilmore. Dagradi's tattoo is clearly visible as a valknot. As we have noted before, this symbol does not always connote racism or fascism, but when it appears in the context of far-right political movements, it must be evaluated as such.

Rob Cantrall attends Joey Gibson's October 15, 2017 rally in Salem, OR, which was also attended by members of the PDX Stormers neo-Nazi organization, and by teenage hammerskin-wannabe Noah Gunn. He can be seen in the bottom picture attempting to start a fight with an anti-fascist activist over Tiny Toese's shoulder.

You can still reach me at my new number of 458-225-4321. I'll think of something to do with it. My regular line should be operational again by tomorrow. Thanks for sticking with me, through this insanity. Can you believe it only took 3 months to get to this point? Anyways, UHURU!

During a recent public social media breakup with former partner— and accomplice in threatening to burn down a bookstore— Lauren Barrett (aka Lauren White), Cantrall broadcast his phone numbers across several Facebook accounts.

Last night (3/17), a belligerent Rob Cantrall showed up to [REDACTED] with a group of what door staff described as "unattractive white men." As far as I can tell, they were turned away at the door for being too drunk and became aggressive.

One of the security staff does have a prominent iron front arrows patch on the front of his vest, so it's possible that's what angered Cantrall enough to write the below review. Staff tells me he's now been 86'd.

An alleged incident as reported on social media wherein Rob Cantrall showed up drunk and belligerent to harass workers at a Portland bar.

Today is the anniversary of the death of Karl Marx. Today is a good day. Liberalism, communism and socialism all lead to murder. Lest we forget the horrors of the past.

Rob Cantrall offers support to the business of neo-Nazi Jake Laskey, who used Wolfclan Armory as a studio to make far-right videos harassing activists in explicitly misogynist and homophobic terms. Laskey maintained a role in the American Front neo-Nazi organization, until he was again arrested for stabbing an acquaintance at a party.

Gilmore has attended at least three of Joey Gibson's hate rallies. Most notably, on April 29, 2017 Gilmore marched through the Montavilla neighborhood of Portland along with racist murderer Jeremy Christian.

Apart from occasionally attending hate rallies Gilmore evidently does very little to advance the cause of "western chauvinism" beyond posting bland Trump memes to Facebook and Twitter.

Around May 5th 2017, Gilmore avowed white nationalist talking points in a Facebook live video, stating his position as a "proud western chauvinist" who will "never apologize for creating the modern world." The date of the video is significant in that it coincides with another of white nationalist Milo Yiannopoulos' failed spectacles; the kick off of his return to touring, uncleverly dubbed "Cinco de Milo," after the revelation of Yiannopolous' enthusiasm for pedophilia, and his subsequent disgrace. In the brief video Gilmore wishes his viewers a "happy Cinco de Milo" between fascistic pronouncements.

Dakota Gilmore was present at Joey Gibson's April 29, 2017 rally in the immigrant neighborhood of Montavilla in Portland. Also present at this rally were members of the PDX Stormers neo-Nazi organization as well as MAX train murderer Jeremy Christian who, after spouting Islamophobic rhetoric at the rally and in Patriot Prayer's facebook comment threads, menaced two young women aboard the train and then stabbed three men who attempted to intervene. Also pictured here are Patriot Prayer founder Joey Gibson, Patriot Prayer followers including Kathryn Townsend and Pam Brumfield-Uriarte, hate preacher Quincy Anatello, former Identity Europa coordinator and neo-Nazi Jake Von Ott, and fellow member of the Proud Boys hate group Tiny Toese.

Dakota Gilmore attended Joey Gibson's June 4, 2017 hate rally mere days after Patriot Prayer follower Jeremy Christian allegedly murdered two people on the MAX train. Also pictured are fellow members of the Proud Boys hate group such as Gabriel Bowman, Anthony Bell, Dominic Laufenberg, Matteo Dagradi, and Aaron Laigaie.

Gilmore is seen with fellow Proud Boy Cameron Heugly (far left) at Joey Gibson's September 10, 2017 rally, which was supposed to be in Portland, but was relocated to Vancouver at the last second due to massive community opposition in Portland. The Vancouver rally also faced heavy opposition from local anti-fascist activists.

Pete Venturo

Medford, OR far-right YouTube rapper Peter Venturo joined up with Patriot Prayer sometime around Joey Gibson's violent August 6th, 2017 rally on the waterfront, which drew many local fascists. Venturo wandered around the rally livestreaming himself threatening anti-fascists and instigating numerous brawls. Venturo's self-aggrandizing hunger for the embarrassing forms of "fame" available to racists, homophobes, and other provocateurial bigots in the age of Trump, made him amenable to Joey Gibson's "martyrdom" approach to far-right public spectacle. Venturo quickly fell under Gibson's thrall.

Venturo enjoys dressing up and adopting various personas for his fellow Proud Boys and Patriot Prayer followers, sometimes posing as "King USA" (pronounced ooh-suh), his clumsy patriotic rap persona "Political Muscle" (definitely not the first far-right rapper we've covered), and occasionally even as a fake anti-fascist named "Pat Robert Panicci" (a ruse only adherents of the far-right seem to believe).

Not six months prior, Gibson and Toese had assisted the neo-Nazi "Rise Above Movement" organization in assaulting Berkeley activists.

Graham Jorgensen

One of Graham Jorgensen's earliest appearance at a Patriot Prayer rally was at Joey Gibson's April 2, 2017 rally in Esther Short Park in Vancouver, WA. Jorgensen, already wearing Gavin McInnes' appropriation of the Fred Perry, mingled with right-wing men who would become members of fascist hate groups such as the Cascade Legion, the Proud Boys, and the PDX Stormers. Jorgensen has continued to rally with white nationalists, Nazis, and other bigots at rallies hosted by Joey Gibson. He also has a history of domestic violence and cyberstalking, targeting a former intimate partner.

David Silliman

David Silliman is not just a member of the white nationalist Proud Boys hate group, he is also a precinct officer with the Vancouver Washington Republican party. He attended Gibson's first Vancouver event on April 2, 2017, and has been seen at a number of Proud Boy and Patriot Prayer events since then. Silliman represents another intimate link between the Proud Boys, Patriot Prayer, and local branches of the Republican Party, even though the more mainstream GOP has been hesitant to associate themselves with either group directly.

David Silliman shares the neo-Nazi propaganda "It's Okay To Be White" meme on his facebook profile.
