Timothy Allen Dunham is a Proud Boy working in healthcare. This fascist hate group is starting street brawls everywhere as the Trump regime fizzles, and now the faction exacerbating the pandemic is infecting @michiganstateu employment. Action items below, (h/t @RuthlessWe).

It took a while, but we had a match on his employment to the MSU Clinical Center, though research indicates you can't reach his building through the main line listed on a Google search.

What's especially concerning is Timothy's ardent hatred of immigrants, wanting them subjected to crimes against humanity such as ICE's forced hysterectomies. It's reasonable to speculate whether Timothy's discriminatory views lead to discriminatory attitudes in the workplace.

Here's more info on him from our original thread, its likely he has a direct superior with similar hateful views covering for him.

Here's MSU's discrimination policy, of which Tim's posts and attitudes are definitely a violation of Article III Section 2.

To say nothing of the behavior of the hate group he's in, starting a street brawl in Kalamazoo in August and attacking people in DC last weekend:

ACTION ITEMS:

- Contact Claire Hankenson, who oversees Timothy's department at claire@msu.edu
- Contact VP of Regulatory Affairs Joseph Haywood at (517)353-7147 and 12/ One of the best things out of @ericries's Lean Startup is the concept of "vanity metrics" - unimportant, inflated metrics that don't have much to do with business value. But the effects of using them are different when you're a startup versus a big co.

 13/ For big, established companies, focusing on vanity metrics is silly but not harmful. Everyone's thrown up a huge number to celebrate for an offsite. I get it. But for startups who are pre-product/market fit, it can lead down a path towards
