Everything You Need To Know About Richard Spencer And His Move to Washington D.C.

Originally published to It's Going Down:

Most antifascists are probably aware at this point that Richard Spencer has moved to the Washington D.C. area with big plans to lobby for white nationalist causes and create a homebase for his new web-project "altright.com." Presumably, then, he has left his congressional aspirations in Montana behind in the wake of Andrew Anglin's failed armed march against the Jewish residents of Whitefish, Montana. (Too bad, we were really looking forward to watching Spencer waste all that time and money!) We wish to relay all the info we have as to his probable location in Alexandria, with enough transparency as to not instill any more confidence in the information than we ourselves have. Do your research and stay diligent.

The Washington Post reported that people in Old Towne Alexandria who are angry that Spencer is setting up shop in their neighborhood were posting fliers "around King and S Patrick." Other neighbors posted on a forum that Richard Spencer is living at 1001 King Street, in a townhome above the business "Blueprint Chocolatiers." This information was corroborated by an article on Alexandria News.

The owner of the property is Mahwash Wasiq (verifiable through property records), who is Senior Water Resource Specialist for the World Bank. Our assumption would be that Spencer likely didn't lease directly from the owner, but through an unwitting rental company. Regardless, we think it is more than fair to put pressure on the owner and leasing company to do everything they can to keep any more white nationalists from lobbying their causes to the racist Trump administration.

In the wake of a viral video of Richard Spencer getting punched in the face, Spencer was quoted by the New York Times as saying: "I don't think I could go out to an inauguration event without bodyguards or a protest or a conference. I am more worried about going out to dinner on an average Tuesday because these kind of people are roaming around." He also said "I'm afraid this is going to become the meme to end all memes. That I'm going to hate watching this."

Naturally, we think this means that now is the time to apply pressure. Richie, you might be a totally

About

Rocky Mountain Antifa is a crew of dedicated antifascists operating in Colorado. We are dedicated to confronting and fighting fascism, racism, and oppression in the Rocky Mountain region. We have no formal membership or organizational structure. We are active in the Torch Antifa Network and follow these points of unity. All antifascists in Colorado, provided they follow the points of unity, will be supported and embraced by Rocky Mountain Antifa. We intend to win!

incompetent fucking nazi and a shitty excuse for an academic, but you've got one thing right: Antifa are everywhere, and we WILL find you. Wherever you go, from small towns in Montana to suburbs of the nation's capitol, you will see that the resistance to white supremacy is growing.

Additional info on Spencer:

Richard Spencer is likely operating out of 1001 King Street (Unit A), Alexandria Virginia in a second-floor townhome above the business there.

You know what, I live in your community and I don't like people like Richard Spencer. Real actual neonazis. But you antifa call everyone you don't agree with a nazi and fascist. Violence is not cool no matter who is doing it. As an American I have a right and obligation to protect my community from violence. I don't like any form of totalitarianism and thats what your tactics and those of the nazis are.
