Absolutely. A few years of funny Holofoax memes has done more to break down these lies than decades of IHR seminars. How do these guys think you engage people? Do they really think you're going to get anywhere when your first attempt to make someone aware of the facts is to sit them down to hours of Irving or Rizoli? Club them in the head with the Leuchter Report?

It is appalling.

Here are the good Doktor's actual thoughts on the nature of his own propaganda:

"GOOD PROPAGANDA DOES NOT NEED TO LIE; INDEED, IT MAY NOT LIE. IT HAS NO REASON TO FEAR THE TRUTH. IT IS A MISTAKE TO BELIEVE THAT PEOPLE CANNOT TAKE THE TRUTH. THEY CAN. IT IS ONLY A MATTER OF PRESENTING THE TRUTH TO THE PEOPLE IN A WAY THAT THEY WILL BE ABLE TO UNDERSTAND. A PROPAGANDA THAT LIES PROVES THAT IT HAS A BAD CAUSE. IT CANNOT BE SUCCESSFUL IN THE LONG RUN."

I've noticed that, too. It is a bit prevalent, even for what legions would describe as my own misogyny.

His comes from the same place mine does, however. We abhor illogic, and women are its font. Their involvement in our public life - even before suffrage - has been the triumph of "feels" over any semblance of reality.

It would be fair to lay this at the feet of feminism rather than females overall, but at this point I find it - like I'm sure Anglin does - a distinction without a difference. They won't be swayed by logic aimed at getting them to embrace logic in the first place. They may not (hopefully) prove a burden in the political fight as it intensifies, but I would classify them as "combat ineffective" at

I fully endorse the chivalry you describe - I simply thought that among a cultivated group of white men the desirability and indeed the necessity of this was understood.

No, I simply meant that some of us are throwbacks to an earlier age of white masculinity in that we are far more ready - even eager - to do violence, not only when it is "necessary" but even when it is merely advantageous in the pursuit of a worthy end.

The iteration of this knightly zeal closest to us in time would be the SS. If you want the ideal of both a committed fighter and a family man, Himmler himself is a fine example. He's certainly in no danger of being called "nice" according to present usage of the term, however.

This is why I see his campaign as a no-lose situation. If he wins, he either at least moves the window in the right direction or totally sells out, reinforcing in the minds of the core of us and those even remotely in/near our orbit the conviction that we're going to have to fight our way out of this no matter what. If he loses, the campaign against our folk (against logos itself!) will continue to intensify and, again, should result in more of our kinsmen resigning themselves to the eventual necessity of the massive application of violence.

Indeed, there are many of us who are conversant with everyone from Heidegger, Evola, and Devi on down, but who are still strapping young(ish) men who prefer to occasionally don our internet brown shirts and boots for a good, old-fashioned donnybrook.

We may or may not, in reality, also pile into our Geländewagen with a few mates and celebrate April 20th with a night on the town trolling for fisticuffs by explaining to the stoners and SJW lowlifes the "reason for the season", as it were.

We also may or may not.... ok, I no longer see the point in prefacing anything with language aimed at plausible deniability when this is my actual name and photo.

Your point is well-made and well-taken: we have need for the SA (Shitlords) and, frankly, I often feel more at ease with them than the truly bookish, purely armchair members of our burgeoning movement. Statistically speaking, I reside intellectually in a rather rarefied stratum. But there are nonetheless men much brighter than I working on the big questions we face and formulating a rubric for evaluating the various possible methods of attaining power and their chances of success.
